Bits of woman's dailiness. Bits of history and memory. Bits of life, here and now. This theater does not want to be an answer, it is no longer a mirror., but rather a state of things. Our binding is the life itself. We hammed, knotted, knitted and wove stories. We composed, arranged and sewed them., and then tear them apart again. We swam into countless roles which we have been playing every day, here and now. Our work is but one attempt at the mystification of the figure of woman, redefinition of icons and verification of the state of things.
